Obituary.

Martin Neidig, one of the prosperous German farmers of the St. Peter's neighborhood, north and east of Ellinwood, died at his home on Sunday, Oct. 20, and was buried from St. Peter's church on Monday afternoon. He was 57 years of age at the time of his death, and was born in Baden, Germany in 1850. He resided in that country until some time in the eighties, when he came to the United States, locating on a farm four miles north and one mile west of Ellinwood.

Mr. Neidig served in the German army, and saw much active service during the Franco-Prussian war. He was a member of the Deutscher Militare Verein, of which the local organization at Ellinwood attended the funeral as an organization and gave the body the military honors, firing a salute over the grave and sounding taps.

Mr. Neidig leaves beside his widow, three sons, August, Nicholas and Joseph, a daughter, Christina, and an adopted daughter Adella.

The funeral services were conducted at St. Peter's church by Father Weikmann, and were very largely attended.

George Skolaut of Heizer, was a caller at this office Tuesday and renewed his subscription to the Democrat.

New York is Getting Scared.

New York, Oct. 22.--There is considerable nervousness today in financial circles as a result of the developments concerning the Knickerbocker Trust Co.

News that the National Bank of Commerce had given notice that it would decline to act as clearing house agent for the Knickerbocker Trust Co., and the resignation of Charles T. Barney of the presidency of the Trust Company, served to unsettle the sentiment more than the Morse Heinze developments of last week.

The magnitude of the business transacted by the Knickerbocker Trust Co., with its deposits of more than sixty millions, gave a more serious aspect to the changes made in its management than did the changes in the relatively smaller Morse Heinze concern.

The announcement of the resignation of President Barney was followed by a series of conferences of financial men which lasted until two o'clock this morning. J. Pierpont Morgan took a leading part in the discussions.

When the meeting broke up the directors of the Knickerbocker Trust Co., issued a statement. It stated that Mr. Barney's outside interests having become greatly extended, in particular because of his position with some of Morse's companies, he had decided that the best interests of the Trust Company would be served by his resignation as president, although he had no loans with that company. He also would resign as a director of the Knickerbocker Trust Co., as well as a director of the National Bank of Commerce.

The statement continues: "In view of the fact that the Knickerbocker will hereafter clear by itself, it was deemed advisable to obtain guarantees of additional cash should it be needed. These guarantees have been obtained and the Knickerbocker will be amply prepared to meet any emergencies that may grow out of a change in the method of clearing. The Knickerbocker has in its own vaults eight millions in cash. If more cash is needed it will be immediately forthcoming."

The stock market opened demoralized today. There was heavy selling, and also a run of considerable proportions on the various offices of the Knickerbocker Trust Co. Prices broke wildly on the opening transactions, but almost immediately rallied.

Later, The Knickerbocker Trust Co., closed its doors early this afternoon. It was said to be only a temporary suspension.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 22.--

The financial conditions in Kansas City are healthy, according to leading bank officials here. Wm. A. Rule, cashier of the National Bank of Commerce of Kansas City, which has deposits of thirty five millions, said today to the Associated Press:

"We might say that we have had an unusual demand. We are all running on conservative lines. Any unusual condition in New York is felt in the west, but we have every faith in the New York Banks being able to handle their situation. West of us and tributary to Kansas City, conditions have been unusually prosperous, and the country banks have plenty of money."

New York, Oct. 23.--The anxiety over the financial situation continued today, although the presence of Secretary Cortelvon lessened the alarm felt yesterday. The unfavorable news of the night was news that The Trust Company of America, one of the city's largest financial institutions, with deposits of fifty millions, had asked for and received assistance from other banks.

President Thorne, of this company, announced that they had plenty of cash and were prepared for any emergency. Lines of people appeared early this morning before the offices of both the Knickerbocker Trust Co., The Trust Company of America. Those around the Knickerbocker Trust Company were disappointed when it was announced early that that concern would not reopen to day. It became known that bankers generally do not regard the Knickerbocker's position as very favorable, and were inclined to permit it to go into liquidation.

The opening of the stock market gave fresh evidence of demoralization, several stocks declining heavily.

Acting State Superintendent of Banks, Skinner, took possession of the Knickerbocker Trust Company this morning, and a bank examiner is in charge of each of its branch offices. The bank examiners announce that the conditions at all other banks and Trust companies, except the two mentioned, are normal.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 22.--The Pittsburg stock exchange did not open this morning, the members deeming it advisable that the exchange remain closed temporarily, owing to the demoralized feeling in Westinghouse Electric, which declined nineteen and five eighths on the New York exchange this morning.

Later the president of the exchange issued a statement saying: "The security investment company finds itself involved. This will necessitate a temporary suspension or receivership of the Westinghouse Electric Co., Westinghouse Machine Co., and the Nerst Lamp Co. The companies are in absolutely solvent condition."

The embarrassment is attributed to the inability to secure funds on account of the stringency of the money market. The amount involved runs up into the millions.

A good joke is told on a certain editor and a certain banker from Larned, who were hunting out in the bottoms last week. Either their eyesight was poor, or something else was wrong, for they are reported to have shot at the decoys, taking them for live ducks. Personal friendship, and the fear of a return roast for some imaginary errors, prevents us from giving any names.
